Seminar Description:

While the effective management of public, private, and nonprofit organizations share some key elements, this course focuses on topics that are unique to the nonprofit sector. Some of these issues arise because of the nature of the sector, such as the volunteer nature of nonprofit boards of directors or the inevitable tension between organizational mission and funders’ demands. Others are included because of the significant changes in the nonprofit sector during the last twenty-five years. Increased involvement in public policymaking, enlarged roles in implementing public initiatives, the more cohesive identity of the sector as a defined piece of the economy and administrative state, and the heightened professionalism demanded by funders all converge to make the day-to-day management of nonprofit organizations in the twenty-first century a challenging task.

This course is designed to provide you with an opportunity to think through some of these issues. It will provide some context that will help you more clearly understand the conditions that you observe either working in a nonprofit organization today, in the future, or in studying or interacting with nonprofit organizations. It will also help you consider the appropriate management actions in ambiguous and complex situations.
As a result, this course combines substantive readings about nonprofit organizations and management issues with case exercises and activities. In this way, we will enjoy a rich array of information in our analysis of nonprofit management and governance.

Teaching Method and Required Materials

The teaching method used in this course is based on an active learning model. This model requires that students prepare before class by reading the substantive articles, preparing the cases assigned, and come to class ready to engage in lively conversation.

Required Texts:

In addition, there will be readings posted on Electronic Reserve. Blackboard will also be used to post course assignments, class PowerPoints, and other documents.

Course Requirements:

Students in this class will need to fulfill the following requirements:

1) Complete all the reading assignments. Come to class prepared with questions to ask of the instructor and fellow students from the reading assignments. Class sessions will not necessarily summarize the readings but rather will provide more information on the topic and encourage application.

2) Participate in class discussions, including case analysis and debate. Participation will be graded on the quality of your contributions, not the quantity. Hallmarks of good participation include: a) risk taking, presenting an opposing view or a different interpretation of the data b) listening, trying to understand what others are saying and why they are saying it c) bringing your own work-related experiences when relevant into discussions and d) monitoring your own participation in terms of both amount and quality. If you experience difficulty speaking in class, please see me early in the term so that we can develop ways to help you participate.

3) Complete the following written assignments on time. Late work will be penalized five points per 24 hour period or fraction thereof:
• Case Memos: Students will be required to complete 2 brief case memos (2-3 pages single spaced) on the cases assigned throughout the term. More information on these memos will be provided on the first day of class.

• Midterm Assignment: Students will be required to complete a midterm assignment on a selected topic. Students must choose a topic from the provided list and select 3 research articles on the topic from the specified journals. Students should explore the findings of the articles, the applicability of the articles to practice, and explore what research is needed to further our understanding on the selected topic. More information on the midterm assignment will be provided on the first day of class.

• Create Your Own Nonprofit Project: Students will be called upon to design their own nonprofit organization. Each student will present his or her nonprofit organization to the class during the final exam period. More information on this project will be provided on the first day of class.

• Final Exam: Students will be required to complete a take-home final examination covering the material discussed throughout the term.

Grading Distribution and Criteria of Evaluation

A student’s grade will be determined according to her/his participation in class discussion (including case analysis and simulations) and performance on the written assignments. The following weights will be used to determine final grades for the course:

• Participation, 15%
• Case Memos, 20%
• Nonprofit Project 25%
• Final Examination, 25%
• Midterm Project, 15%

Participation will be assessed according to:

• Thorough preparation of case materials
• Engagement with class case analysis
• Thoughtfulness of class contribution

The Case Memos will be assessed according to:

• Thoroughness of the response
• Persuasiveness of argumentation
• Ability to address the central dynamics in the cases
• Writing style and mechanics (free of spelling, typographical, and grammatical errors)
The Midterm Project will be assessed according to:

- Coverage and/understanding of the research articles
- Cohesion of the discussion on the major findings of the articles (need to be able to bring the various findings together)
- Ability to apply the research to practice
- Ability to understand the gaps in the research and propose new issues
- Writing style and mechanics (free of spelling, typographical, and grammatical errors)

The Nonprofit Project will be assessed according to:

- Creativity of your organizations
- Comprehensiveness in addressing the requirements of the project
- Feasibility of the organization
- Writing style and mechanics (free of spelling, typographical, and grammatical errors)

The Final Examination will be assessed according to:

- Degree of analytical thinking demonstrated
- Ability to link course materials to your analysis
- Persuasiveness of argumentation
- Writing style and mechanics (free of spelling, typographical, and grammatical errors)

The grading scale used for the assignments (and the class) is the following:

My Policies and Procedures:

1) Attendance in class is crucial (I will keep track). Especially due to the nature of holidays in the fall semester, students should miss no more than one class. I understand that issues can arise in life, but you should endeavor to attend all classes. Failure to attend the majority of classes may result in a lower grade. In addition, when you are going to miss class, you should make sure to notify me by phone or e-mail.

2) I do not discuss grades or class performance over e-mail. You are welcome to e-mail me with questions concerning course material or assignments; however, to discuss your performance in class and/or grades, you must telephone me or come to my office to discuss the matter in person.
3) Incompletes are reserved solely for emergency situations. I recognize that students often have a variety of pressures in their jobs and lives. However, to receive an incomplete in the class, you must have completed a majority of the course material. Therefore, if you are experiencing challenges in completing the course, come speak with me sooner rather than later to discuss options.

4) I follow university procedures concerning academic integrity and plagiarism. Please see http://www.csuohio.edu/studentlife/conduct/acadregs.html for more detail.
