TEXTBOOK:

READINGS:

SCOPE:
The course examines the basic administrative processes of modern local government in the United States. Of key concern are American institutions and governance processes, reflecting both our constitutional heritage and management beliefs. City management as an academic discipline will be taught with appropriate textbook, journal and case study references. Guest lecturers will be academicians and practitioners.

FOCUS:
The course will touch upon and analyze urban management in its large arena. However, the focus will be on the basics and the practice of public administration from the point of view of the municipal administrator or city manager. The basics include the structure and processes of government, the theoretical approaches to their study and the norms that should guide the actions of public administrators and managers. Most seminar sessions will be led a guest lecturer who can provide the students with personal experiences and current practices and challenges in city management.

GRADING:
The final grade for the course will be a weighted average of numerical grades of the four papers that are required. Papers must be academically written (citations when appropriate), with an introduction, a discourse and a conclusion. Graphs, charts and exhibits should be included when appropriate.
